

Spring 2011

ENC 4930: Writing about the Exile Experience Cross-listed with MMC 4936: Special Topics - B60

MWF | 10:00 - 10:50 AM | Biscayne Bay Campus

Prof. Tania C. Lopez

If you are looking to improve your reading, writing and research skills and acquire a deeper understanding of writing and exile, this is the class for you.

In Writing about the Exile Experience, we will analyze how exiles such as Edward Said, Isabel Allende, Milan Kundera, Yoani Sanchez and Reinaldo Arenas have used rhetorical strategies to accomplish specific goals and reach out to specific audiences. As you learn to analyze how experienced writers have used rhetorical strategies for specific goals and audiences, you will also learn to better use those strategies in your own writing. Our class will also provide an active learning environment where you will be encouraged to pursue your own research interests within the theme of writing and exile. This class will also help you hone your writing and research skills through a sequence of research-based writing projects.

For more information, please contact Prof. Tania C. Lopez at tlopez@fiu.edu.