

Community Writing and Rhetoric

ENC 4331 - U01

T/TH, 12:30PM – 1:45PM

Dr. Paul Feigenbaum

pfeigenb@fiu.edu

Spring 2012

Modesto Maidique Campus

Course for the Certificate in Professional and Public Writing

In this course, we will discuss and write about what civic role students can play in local, national, and global communities, as well as how they can use writing to advance both their professional goals and the goals of various communities that matter to them. Students will research and write about contemporary civic issues, explore different ways to move an audience to action, and analyze the effectiveness of real campaigns to remedy social problems. Students will also develop a real project to make an impact on an issue of their choice.